Oil palm segment is expected to deliver positive earnings despite the on-going low FFB production cycle as CPO price is expected to remain elevated for the coming months. This is bolstered by the delays in foreign workers intake, the on-going drought in South America, Indonesia's new export restriction on palm oil, India's import tax reduction on CPO, and high price of soybean oil.

The outlook of timber segment remains promising due to higher market price of timber products in line with recovery in market demand. However, the Group remains committed to its on-going cost-rationalisation measures and streamlining of operations.

As global economic growth expected to moderate this year, the Group remains steadfast and emphasize on business sustainability via process improvement and innovation. This will facilitate the Group to be better prepared for any risks of pandemic-induced economic disruptions and volatility in commodities price.
