B4 Current year Prospects

The Group believes the COVID-19 pandemic is still far from over given the unpredictable spike in Covid-19 infectivity rate and new strains. The global economy is expected to contract as a result of the impacts of the Covid-19 pandemic as well as Russia-Ukraine war, which have led to international trade frictions, resurrecting of global supply chain disruptions such as logistical bottlenecks, raw material shortages and inflationary pressure.

Despite the adverse circumstances affecting market conditions, the Group is cautiously optimistic that construction activities will pick up over time and is confident that its order book will be replenished by securing the projects that are now being tendered for. The Group believes its plan to expand upstream into the property development business is timely, given the gradual recovery of the economy in general and the property sector in particular.

Going forward, the Group opines that with careful planning and execution, it will be in a better strategic and operational position to improve its business performance when both property development and construction projects commence, which would eventually contribute positively to the Group's earnings in the future.
